To whom it may concern-

I wanted to send this message to say I strongly disapprove of the proposed Microsoft settlement. How is it a punishment to increase their market share in the education arena? This is exactly what they have been trying to do for years. This would actually increase their illegal monopoly. Once they place the computers and software in the schools, they then get to sell upgrades to the schools.

If you really want to punish them, you should make them give the money directly to the schools so the schools can choose their own computers and software. Then if the schools choose to purchase windows machines, so be it. But at least they have the choice.

Sincerely,
Jeff Shultz
